OATH ON MAY DAY!

It has been four decades since neo-liberal globalization set in motion the reshaping of world economic order. During this time, the agenda of liberalisation has decimated labour rights, sacrificed local productions for multinational supply chains, and privatised public assets at a throwaway price apart from adopting a slew of economic measures that have also affected directly or indirectly the life of the working class. The result today is a perverse regime defined by the free movement of capital which moves relatively effortlessly across international borders even as the free movement of labour is controlled by a sharp increase in income inequality and steady narrowing of basic democratic and trade union rights. Unfortunately, no matter who comes to power and what promises are made before the election, the same economic policies are followed. In fine, the sovereignty of the working class is replaced by the sovereignty of global finance. This is the challenge before the working class as another May Day is knocking at our door.

This abridgement of democracy is usually justified by political and economic elites because the new economic policy ensures higher GDP growth and indeed in many countries especially in Asia the growth under the new economic regime is much more than what it was in the earlier dispensation. Unfortunately, such growth scarcely benefits the bulk of the people and leads to growth in income inequality pari passu with GDP growth. This growth in income inequality is justified by the logic that growth will lift all the boats in the tidal waves of development even though some boats may rise much more than others. Despite this, and other cracks in the rising tide argument the narrative that the neo-liberal policies would benefit all remain acceptable for at least two reasons. First, the so-called globalization has reportedly contributed to the astonishing reduction of poverty in China, a claim which was later questioned. Secondly, a significant section of the middle class did do well with opportunities expanded due to the outsourcing of a range of activities by the advanced countries particularly from India, and to a rise in share of economic surplus caused by languishing wages but increased productivity aided by developments in automated technology. The working people who were hurt by the neo-liberal regime nurtured a fond hope that a high growth rate would sooner or later trickle down to them.

This hope was first dashed with the collapse of the US Housing bubble in 2008 giving way to protracted crisis and stagnation in the world economy. The crisis is further accentuated by the onset of the Covid pandemic followed by the emergence of regional theatre of conflicts be it in Ukraine or Gaza. We have pointed out earlier that the sale of public enterprises at throwaway prices and the shifting of the production base to a lower-wage economy are two important characteristic hallmarks of the neoliberal regime.

A JUG FILLS DROP BY DROP

Empirical studies have shown that the organized trade union movement is more assertive in large public sector enterprises and the rise of trade union power is directly correlated with the growth in the importance of the public sector. With gradual dismantling of public sector enterprises and shifting of production bases from high-wage islands to low-wage terrain has effectively compromised the striking power of the working people worldwide and May Day this year will be observed in that backdrop which of course remains broadly static except for the resurgence in the resistance movement albeit sporadically in different parts of the world.

In order to break this cycle, it is essential that a new government that would emerge as the country has gone to its eighteenth general election should not simply resume the old economic policies that produce growing inequality, growing poverty, and growing unemployment. There has to be a decisive shift towards a robust welfare state with revived public social services, public goods, expansion of public enterprises, reversal of the policies of bank privatization, precisely the opposite road as prescribed by the global finance. Quantitatively it has been estimated to be feasible to ensure five justifiable economic rights – the right to food, the right to employment, the right to free health, the right to free publicly funded education and the right to a decent old age pension along with disability benefits. This would require raising additional resources amounting to around 7 percent of GDP which is feasible.

The oath of the May Day in the current conjecture is to ensure a decisive move towards a welfare state measures that had been rolled back during the ascendancy of neo-liberal policies. Politically this shift will be challenging. Authoritarianism crushes the spirit of protest by poisoning the mind though propagating the doctrine of majoritarian rule. May Day calls that this rise must be checked in India by such democratic means as are still available. This is the significance of May Day of 2024 in Indian context. Common Bond extends its May Day greetings to the entire membership and its readers. Long Live May Day!

REPORTS: INDIAN BANKS GRAPPLING WITH SEVERE DEPOSIT SHORTAGE...By IndraStra Global News Team

According to the latest Live Mint report, Indian banks are currently facing a significant challenge as they grapple with the most severe deposit shortage in the past two decades. Despite a surge in credit demand, banks in India have struggled to attract deposits during the financial year 2023-24. Data from the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) reveals a notable imbalance, with the credit-deposit ratio reaching its highest level in over 20 years.

The credit-deposit ratio, standing at 80%, indicates the proportion of a bank's deposits that are being utilized for loans. This ratio serves as a crucial metric for assessing a bank's liquidity and lending capacity. The latest figures, covering the fiscal year up to March 22nd, underscore the immense strain faced by Indian banks in managing their deposit base amidst heightened credit activity.

The escalating credit-deposit ratio signals a growing reliance on loans to fuel economic activities across various sectors. Notably, the surge in loan uptake encompasses diverse categories, including home loans and other forms of consumer credit. Such trends suggest robust demand from both individual borrowers and businesses seeking financing for various purposes.

Analysts attribute the surge in credit demand to several factors, including increased consumer spending, infrastructure development initiatives, and government stimulus measures aimed at boosting economic growth. However, the simultaneous decline in deposit mobilization poses a significant challenge for banks, as they strive to maintain a balance between lending and liquidity management.

The data underscores a broader concern regarding the stability and resilience of India's banking sector. While robust credit growth is indicative of economic vitality, an imbalanced credit-deposit ratio raises concerns about the sustainability of lending activities and the potential risks associated with liquidity shortages.

Industry experts emphasize the need for proactive measures to address the deposit crunch and ensure the stability of the banking system. Strategies such as incentivizing savings, enhancing deposit mobilization channels, and fostering investor confidence are deemed essential to alleviate the strain on banks' deposit base.

Moreover, regulatory authorities are closely monitoring the situation to assess potential risks and implement necessary interventions to safeguard the financial stability of the banking sector. The RBI, in particular, plays a pivotal role in overseeing banking operations and implementing prudent policies to mitigate systemic risks.

In light of the current challenges, banks are exploring various avenues to augment their deposit base and mitigate liquidity pressures. Initiatives such as offering attractive interest rates, launching targeted marketing campaigns, and expanding digital banking services aim to attract depositors and enhance liquidity management capabilities.

However, addressing the deposit crunch necessitates a collaborative effort involving banks, regulators, policymakers, and stakeholders across the financial ecosystem. A coordinated approach focused on fostering depositor confidence, promoting savings culture, and enhancing banking infrastructure is crucial to restoring equilibrium in the banking sector.

Furthermore, stakeholders stress the importance of addressing structural issues within the banking system, such as asset-liability mismatches, to ensure long-term sustainability and resilience. Strengthening risk management frameworks, improving transparency and governance standards, and enhancing regulatory oversight are essential components of a comprehensive strategy to fortify the banking sector against external shocks and systemic vulnerabilities.

Looking ahead, the challenge of managing deposit shortages amid burgeoning credit demand underscores the imperative for continuous innovation, adaptability, and resilience within the banking sector. As India strives to sustain economic momentum and navigate evolving global dynamics, the resilience of its banking system remains a cornerstone of financial stability and inclusive growth.

Circular No. 2024/09

Date:18.04.2024

Dear Comrades,

REPRODUCTION OF UFBU CIRCULAR NO: UFBU/2024/4 DATED 18-04-2024 BIPARTITE TALKS WITH IBA NEGOTIATING COMMITTEE MEETING DATED 18.04.2024

DISCUSSIONS WITH IBA ON 18-4-2024

UFBU CIRCULAR:Further to the signing of the Bipartite Settlement and Joint Note on 8-3-2024, we have been reminding the IBA to continue the discussions on other residual issues. Today afternoon, a virtual meeting was held between IBA and UFBU. IBA team was represented by Shri Rajneesh Karnatak, (MD & CEO, Bank of India), Chairman of the IBA's Standing Committee on HR,

THERE HAS TO BE EVIL SO THAT GOOD CAN PROVE ITS PURITY ABOVE IT

Shri. S L Jain, MD & CEO, Indian Bank and other Executives who are members of the Committee and officials of the IBA. UFBU was represented by our constituent unions.

Ex-gratia for Pensioners: The issue of review of Ex-gratia payable to all pensioners was discussed and it was agreed to continue the same ex-gratia amount w.e.f. 1-4-2024 onwards for the current financial year. We have also suggested that after the Balance Sheets of the Banks as on March, 2024 are finalised and declared, the issue can be discussed further.

We pointed out that for the pre-Nov. 2002 pensioners, the DA needs to be notionally taken with 100% neutralisation for working out the ex-gratia amount and urged upon the IBA to suitably advise the Banks in this regard.

We also took up with IBA that the ex-gratia payment can be extended to the private Banks on the lines of the provisions of 12th BPS. We have urged upon the IBA to send a communication to the Banks concerned. The issue needs further discussion.

Modifications and improvements in PLI : We suggested that the existing matrix provided in the PLI formula may be modified and improved upon. IBA informed that the issue requires thorough discussions and hence can be discussed in the next meeting.

We also informed the IBA that some of the Banks have not paid the difference in PLI amount for the year ended 31-3-2023 based on the revised emoluments paid after wage revision. We have requested the IBA to clarify to the Banks in this regard.

Option for Resignees to join the Pension Scheme: We requested the IBA to advise the Banks for initiating the steps to extend the option for the eligible resignees to join the pension Scheme as provided in the Settlement/Joint Note.

Residual Issues: We requested the IBA to fix up the date for discussing the residual issues including the Medical Insurance and IBA agreed to finalise the date and hold the meeting at the earliest.

With greetings,

Sd/- (Rupam Roy)
General Secretary

JUDGMENT

J.K. Maheshwari, J.- Appellant, who was compulsorily retired as Sr. Manager, was denied the benefit of leave encashment, employer's contribution of provident fund, gratuity and pension by the Punjab National Bank (hereinafter referred to as the "Bank"). On rejection of his representation by the authorities, a challenge was made by filing a writ petition before the High Court. The said writ petition was contested by the Bank, taking the plea that due to irregularities in granting loans and cash credit facilities under the Credit Guarantee Fund Trust Scheme for Micro & Small Enterprises (for short "CGTMSE") and otherwise in routine loans, loss was caused to the Bank.

2. The background facts were that earlier, the appellant was charge--sheeted on 16.10.2009 and also served with a supplementary charge-sheet on 20.11.2009. On submitting of reply by the appellant, departmental enquiry was conducted and the enquiry report dated 11.01.2010 was submitted to the disciplinary authority who found him guilty and vide order dated 29.01.2010, penalty of compulsory retirement was inflicted. The appeal filed by the appellant was also dismissed by appellate authority on 28.07.2010.

3. The appellant by filing the writ petition did not challenge the order of compulsory retirement and only claimed the terminal benefits i.e., leave encashment, employer's contribution of provident fund, gratuity and pension. In the meantime, the review filed by the appellant before the appellate authority was also dismissed on 06.01.2011. During pendency of the writ petition, the Board of Directors of the Bank vide resolution dated 20.12.2010 refused to give employer's contribution of provident fund to the tune of ₹ 8,80,085/- to the appellant. Learned Single Judge vide order dated 03.04.2012 allowed the said writ petition in part and directed the Bank to release the employer's contribution of the provident fund as well as gratuity with interest @ 8.5% p.a. and leave encashment in terms of Regulation 38 of the Punjab National Bank (Officers') Service Regulations, 1979 (for short "1979 Regulations"). It was also clarified that the dues be calculated from the date of compulsory retirement and be released within a period of eight weeks from the date of communication. Learned Single Judge denied the benefit of pension because the appellant was not an in-service candidate when the scheme for shifting to the pension regime became operational.

THREE THINGS CANNOT BE LONG HIDDEN: THE SUN, THE MOON AND THE TRUTH

Common Bond, May-2024

4. On filing the Special Appeal by the Bank, the Division Bench allowed the same in part maintaining the order of grant of leave encashment, but set-aside the grant of provident fund (Bank's contribution) and gratuity on the pretext that by an act of the appellant, loss has been caused to the Bank.

5. In view of the foregoing facts, grant of leave encashment to appellant is no more res integra. The appellant is not challenging the refusal to grant pension as he was not an in-service candidate at the time of change of scheme. The only question that falls for consideration is whether the denial of employer's contribution of Provident Fund and non-payment of gratuity to appellant because of the order of compulsory retirement, as directed by the impugned order, is justified or not?

6. Mr. Irshad Ahmad, learned counsel appearing for the appellant contends that Rule 13 of the Punjab National Bank Employees' Provident Fund Trust Rules (for short "P.F. Trust Rules") gives first lien to the Bank on the contributions made by it to recover any loss, damages and liabilities which the Bank may at any time sustain or incur by reasons of any dishonest act, deed or omission or gross misconduct by a member of the provident fund. It is submitted that in the main charge-sheet or in the supplementary charge-sheet, it is not alleged that due to grant of loan under the scheme or in other loans, any loss has been caused to the Bank. In the report of enquiry, finding of loss having been caused to the Bank has not been recorded. Learned counsel contends that the Board of Directors unilaterally passed a resolution which has rightly been interfered with by the learned Single Judge.

7. Learned counsel contends that while reversing those findings, the Division Bench has not assigned any cogent reason or even discussed the issue. It is also submitted that the Punjab National Bank, Personnel Division, Head Office, New Delhi issued Circular No. 1563 on 16.01.1997 having due reference to the provisions of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 (for short "Gratuity Act") and payment under the 1979 Regulations. Explanation to clause 14(1)(a) of the said circular makes it clear that the gratuity is payable on termination of service to an officer on completion of at least 10 years of service. It is clarified that the said termination should not be by way of punishment as dismissal or removal. Learned Single Judge has rightly observed that Regulation 4 of the Punjab National Bank Officer Employees' (Discipline and Appeal) Regulations 1977 (for short "1977 Regulations") makes it clear that a dismissal of an employee shall ordinarily be a disqualification for future employment whereas removal from service shall not be a disqualification for future employment. It is also stated that no aggravating circumstance of causing loss by appellant or finding as to loss being caused has been recorded in the enquiry. There was no quantification of loss or damage. It is urged that on inflicting a penalty of compulsory retirement after enquiry, ipso facto would not result in forfeiture of the gratuity as directed by the impugned order. Even otherwise the forfeiture of gratuity affects the civil right of an employee having adverse consequence which cannot be directed in violation of the principles of natural justice.

8. Per contra, Mr. Rajesh Kumar Gautam, learned counsel for the respondent Bank argued in support of the findings recorded in the impugned order passed by the Division Bench and contends that the normal retirement of an employee cannot be equated with compulsory retirement inflicted by way of penalty. Therefore, gratuity and Bank's contribution towards provident fund have rightly been withheld by the order impugned. In support of his contention, reliance has been placed on the Full Bench judgment of the Punjab & Haryana High Court in LPA No. 566 of 2012 titled UCO Bank and others v. Anju Mathur decided on 07.03.2013. It is urged that the said judgment was cited and relied upon by the High Court of Delhi in B.R. Sharma v. Syndicate Bank and others. Learned counsel has also placed reliance on the judgment of this Court in Canara Bank and another v. Lalit Popli (Dead) through Legal Representatives.

9. We have heard learned counsel for the parties at length. The issue of payment of provident fund (Bank's contribution) and payment of gratuity and its forfeiture are required to be analysed with reference to the relevant provisions of the Act, Rules, Regulations and the circulars issued by the Bank from time to time. They are being considered in the subsequent sub-headings and the paragraphs.

GRANT OF PROVIDENT FUND AND WHEN IT CAN BE FORFEITED:

10. Chapter IX of 1979 Regulations deals with the terminal benefits. As per Regulation 45(1), every officer shall become a member of the Provident Fund constituted by the Bank and shall be bound by the Rules governing such fund. The Rules governing such fund are known as P.F. Trust Rules. As per Rule 2 of the Trust Rules, the contribution of the employee and employer shall be deposited in the provident fund trust account, which shall be a contributory provident fund. Rules 13 and 14 whereof are relevant for the purpose of this case and are reproduced as thus:

"13. The Bank shall have first lien on the contributions made by it to the individual account of any member together with interest thereon or accretions thereto, to recover any loss, damages and liabilities which the Bank may at any time sustain or incur by reasons of any dishonest act, deed or omission or gross misconduct of or by such member.

14. In case where the Bank shall have first lien as provided in Rule No. 13 above, the Trustees shall on receipt of the resolution passed by the Bank's Board of Directors pay to the Bank out of such member's individual account in the Fund, such portion thereof not exceeding the Bank's contribution to it, as the Board might ask the Trustees to pay, and the receipt of the Bank for any payment so made, shall be complete discharge to the Trustees. In the event of any such payment, the remaining amount out of the Provident Fund balance shall be paid to him. The recovery of such losses by the Bank shall be limited to the extent of such financial loss only."

On perusal, it is clear that the Bank shall have first lien on the contributions made by it to the individual account of any member together with interest thereon or accretions thereto, to recover any loss, damages and liabilities, sustained any time by the Bank or incurred by reasons of any dishonest act, deed or omission or gross misconduct of the member. It is further apparent that the Board of Directors shall pass an order to pay the contribution of the Bank which is in the account of fund to the Bank to the extent of recovery of the loss, damages and liabilities.

11. Let us apply the said Rules to the facts of the present case in the context of the allegations made in the charge-sheet dated 16.10.2009 and supplementary charge-sheet dated 20.11.2009 to consider the position that emerges.

12. It was alleged that while granting the loans or extending cash credit facilities under the CGTMSE or otherwise, due diligence of the procedure was not followed by the appellant. In the charge-sheet, it is not alleged that by such an act, the Bank has suffered loss nor has the quantification of the amount of loss been done. In the report of enquiry, finding about loss being caused or quantification of the amount of loss has not been recorded. The contribution of Bank to provident fund was forfeited as per resolution dated 20.12.2010 of the Board of Directors based on the communication dated 19.11.2010 as referred by the learned Single Judge. The said resolution refers that the Bank has suffered a loss of 77.59 lakhs by an act of the appellant for which the penalty of compulsory retirement has been directed. However, the recommendations were made for appropriation of the Bank's contribution of provident fund to the tune of 8,80,085/- and it was withheld from the provident fund account of the appellant. By filing this appeal, the appellant has averred and produced the report of the internal auditor dated 27.7.2009 (Annexure P-1). The said report was of the prior date, from the date of issuance of the charge-sheet. However, relying on the said report, it is submitted that no loss has been caused to the Bank. It is contended that nothing is alleged towards loss in the charge-sheet.

13. In the counter affidavit to this appeal, it is stated that the Report (Annexure P--1) was not part of the record of the writ petition before the High Court and without an application to take the additional evidence on record, it cannot be read by this Court. On perusal of the averments of the counter affidavit, the existence of the report (Annexure P--1) has not been denied by the respondents. In the finding of the enquiry report, quantification of the loss caused is not recorded. The resolution of the Board of Directors dated 20.12.2010 is subsequent to the order of penalty of compulsory retirement. Thus, prior to the charge-sheet as per report of the internal auditor, loss has not been reported to the Bank. Presumably, it appears to us, for the said reasons in the charge-sheet, allegations causing loss and quantifying the amount of loss have not been specified. The Board of Directors on the basis of information unilaterally passed the resolution alleging loss of ₹ 77.59 lakhs. Prior to passing the resolution, notice asking response and opportunity was not afforded to the appellant. In the facts as discussed, the unilateral report cannot be relied upon by the Board of Directors to deny the benefit of payment of employer's contribution of provident fund. In this view of the matter, learned Single Judge was right in observing that the Board of Directors has not afforded an opportunity to the appellant on the issue of causing loss or damage to the Bank, prior to the passing of the resolution of appropriation of the contribution of the Bank from the provident fund account of the appellant. Moreover, in the absence of any allegation in the charge-sheet about the quantifiable amount of loss, the argument as advanced by respondents is bereft of any merit. In view of the above discussions, the findings recorded by learned Single Judge with regard to payment of Bank's contribution of provident fund is equitable, just and is liable to be upheld, setting aside the findings of the Division Bench.

PAYMENT OF GRATUITY AND WHEN IT CAN BE WITHHELD:

14. Regulation 46 of Chapter IX of 1979 Regulations deals with gratuity. The relevant extract of the said

Regulation is reproduced as thus:

"46. Gratuity:

46. (1) Every officer shall be eligible for gratuity on:
- retirement
 - death
 - disablement rendering him unfit for further service as certified by a medical officer approved by the Bank;
 - resignation after completing ten years of continuous service; or
 - termination of service in any other way except by way of punishment after completion of 10 years of service.

15. In view of the above, an officer of the Bank shall be eligible for gratuity on retirement; death; disablement rendering him unfit as certified by an approved medical officer; resignation after completion of 10 years of continuous service or termination of service after completion of 10 years except in a case if such termination is by way of punishment. However, the said Regulations are silent on the contingency as to what would happen if an officer is met with a penalty of compulsory retirement.

16. Further if we look at Section 4 of the Gratuity Act, it elucidates the conditions of payment of gratuity to an employee on termination of his services. In particular, sub--section (6) of Section 4 highlights the conditions when gratuity can be withheld to an employee on his termination. The relevant portion has been reproduced as under:

" (6) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1)-

- the gratuity of an employee, whose services have been terminated for any act, wilful omission or negligence causing any damage or loss to, or destruction of, property belonging to the employer shall be forfeited to the extent of the damage or loss so caused;
- the gratuity payable to an employee shall be wholly forfeited-

- (i) if the services of such employee have been terminated for his riotous or disorderly conduct or any other act of violence on his part, or
- (ii) if the services of such employee have been terminated for any act which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude, provided that such offence is committed by him in the course of his employment.

17. The provisions of Gratuity Act make it clear that forfeiture of gratuity may be directed to the extent of damage or loss so caused or destruction of property belonging to employer. In twin situations where the termination is due to riotous or disorderly conduct or involvement of the employee in a criminal case involving moral turpitude, the gratuity shall be wholly forfeited.

18. This Court in the case of Y.K. Singla v. Punjab National Bank and others while considering the issue of interest on the late payment of gratuity to a retired employee of Punjab National Bank held that the payment of Gratuity Act will override the Punjab National Bank (Employees') Pension Regulations, 1995 (for short "1995 Pension Regulations"). While dealing with the issue of recovery from gratuity under Regulation 46 or withholding of pension under Regulation 46(2) of the said Regulations, this Court in paragraph 22, after referring to Section 14 of the Gratuity Act, has held as under:

"22. In order to determine which of the two provisions (the Gratuity Act, or the 1995 Regulations) would be applicable for determining the claim of the appellant, it is also essential to refer to Section 14 of the Gratuity Act, which is being extracted hereunder:-

"14. Act to override other enactments, etc. – The provisions of this Act or any rule made thereunder shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any enactment other than this Act or in any instrument or contract having effect by virtue of any enactment other than this Act."

(emphasis supplied)

A perusal of Section 14 leaves no room for any doubt that a superior status has been vested in the provisions of the Gratuity Act vis-à-vis any other enactment (including any other instrument or contract) inconsistent therewith. Therefore, insofar as the entitlement of an employee to gratuity is concerned, it is apparent that in cases where gratuity of an employee is not regulated under the provisions of the Gratuity Act, the legislature having vested superiority to the provisions of the Gratuity Act over all other provisions/enactments (including any instrument or contract having the force of law), the provisions of the Gratuity Act cannot be ignored. The term "instrument" and the phrase "instrument or contract having the force of law" shall most definitely be deemed to include the 1995 Regulations, which regulate the payment of gratuity to the appellant."

19. In view of the above, it is apparent that the provisions of the Gratuity Act have superiority over all other provisions of Regulations.

20. The Bank harmonizing the provisions of Regulation 46 of 1979 Regulations and the Gratuity Act issued Circular No. 1563 on 16.01.1997 through its personnel division. Therein harmonizing the Regulations with the provisions of the Gratuity Act and in clauses 8 and 14 of the Circular, the instances as to when gratuity could be forfeited, have been specified. Those clauses are relevant and have been reproduced as under:

"8. FORFEITURE OF GRATUITY UNDER ACT

The gratuity payable under the Payment of Gratuity Act, is liable to full or partial forfeiture under different circumstances. Section 4(1) of Payment of Gratuity Act deals to payment of gratuity whereas section 4(6) of the act deals with forfeiture of gratuity. Section 4(1) reads as under:

Gratuity shall be payable to an employee on the termination of his employment after he has rendered continuous service for not less than five years:

- a. On his superannuation, or
- b. On his retirement or resignation, or
- c. On his death or disablement due to accident or disease.

Provided that the completion of continuous service of five years shall not be necessary where the termination of the employment of any employee is due to death or disablement.

Section 4(6) provides as under:

“Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1)

a. The gratuity of an employee, whose services have been terminated for any act, wilful omission or negligence causing any damage or loss to, or destruction of, property belonging to the employee, shall be forfeited to the extent of the damage or loss so caused;

b. The gratuity payable to an employee may be wholly or partially forfeited.

I) If the services of such employee have been terminated for his riotous or disorderly conduct or any other act of violence on his part, or

II) If the services of such employee have been terminated for any act which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude, provided that such offence is committed by him in the course of his employment.

14. PAYMENT UNDER OFFICERS SERVICE REGULATIONS

Rules relating to payment of gratuity of officers staff have been laid down under Regulation 46 of PNB Officers Service Regulations, 1979 which is as under:-

I) Every officer shall be eligible for gratuity on:

(a) Retirement, (b) death (c) disablement rendering him unfit for further service as certified by a medical officer approved by the bank, or (d) resignation after completing ten years of continuous service or termination of service in any other way except by way of punishment after completion of 10 years of service.

Explanation: We have to clarify that gratuity may be paid in case of termination of service, subject to the condition that the officers has put in at least 10 years of service with the bank and provided that the termination is not by way of dismissal or removal from service as punishment.

(II) The amount of gratuity payable to an officer shall be one month's pay for every completed year of service, subject to a maximum of 15 months' pay:

Provided that where an officer has completed more than 30 years of service, he shall be eligible by way of gratuity for an additional amount at the rate of one half of month pay for each completed year of service beyond thirty years.

Pay for the purpose of gratuity in case of officer shall mean basic pay only. While calculating gratuity, that part of PQA & FPA drawn by an officer, which rank for superannuation benefit, shall also be taken into account.

Note: If the fraction of service beyond completed years of service is six months or more, gratuity will be paid pro-rata for the period. In this connection, we have to clarify that for the purpose of calculating gratuity, the number of days, beyond 6 months period is also to be taken into account.

On a combined reading of the provisions of the Gratuity Act, 1979 Regulations and the circular, it becomes clear that the gratuity shall become payable to every officer on retirement, death, disablement or on resignation except in a case of termination of service in any other way, by way of punishment after completion of 10 years of continuous service.

21. At this stage, it is relevant to refer to the provisions of 1977 Regulations. Regulation 4 of the said Regulations specifies major penalties: -

HE WHO SEEKS HAPPINESS BY HURTING WILL NEVER FIND IT

“Major penalties :

- (f)
- (g)
- (h) Compulsory retirement;
- (i) Removal from service which shall not be a disqualification for future employment;

- (j) Dismissal which shall ordinarily be a disqualification for future employment.”

The explanation to Regulation 4 under the heading “Major Penalties” specifies some of the situations which shall not amount to penalty within the meaning of this Regulation. As those conditions are not relevant for the present case, they are not being referred to.

22. Under Regulation 4 of the 1977 Regulations, the compulsory retirement of an officer is a major penalty. The explanation as given in clause 14(1)(a) of the said Circular clarifies that in case of termination after at least 10 years of service in the Bank, if such termination is not by way of punishment as dismissal or removal, the gratuity may be paid. In the said explanation, the denial of gratuity to an employee, who is inflicted with the major penalty of compulsory retirement, has not been included. Therefore, the gratuity is payable to the appellant under the 1979 Regulations in terms of the explanation under the said Circular. Even otherwise, if we see the provisions of the Gratuity Act, gratuity can be withheld in case of damages or loss so caused or destruction of property belonging to the employer or otherwise where the termination of service is due to riotous or disorderly conduct or due to criminal case involving moral turpitude.

23. The facts of the case at hand are not a case of riotous behaviour of appellant or his involvement in any criminal case. As discussed hereinabove, while dealing with the issue of forfeiture of employers’ contribution of provident fund in the enquiry report, no finding regarding causing loss to the bank or on quantification of the amount of loss has been recorded.

24. While passing an order of withholding of gratuity, opportunity of hearing has not been afforded to the appellant. In this regard, the judgment of the Full Bench of Punjab & Haryana High Court in UCO Bank (supra) is relevant, wherein the Full Bench has duly considered the issue of forfeiture of gratuity and the relevant paras of the said judgement are reproduced as under:

“22.... No doubt, in the charge--sheet as many as 24 accounts are mentioned where the respondent had given loans or other financial accommodation either beyond her powers or without obtaining proper securities. That would show that certain accounts were overdrawn. Even the operation of these accounts was not satisfactory. However, whether the appellant--Bank ultimately suffered loss and what was the actual loss is not reflected. No doubt, the irregularities committed by the respondent may have exposed the Bank to such losses. However, that is entirely different from loss having been actually suffered by the bank. Even if some accounts became bad and the Bank had to file suits for recovery concerning those accounts against the defaulting parties, that would not automatically lead to the conclusion that the loss/damage has been suffered. It is possible that Bank is able to recover full money in those proceedings. Whether that happened in fact or not and whether loss is actually suffered or not is not discernible from either the charge--sheet or the enquiry report.

23. It is for this reason that it was incumbent upon the appellant--Bank to mention specifically about the actual loss having been suffered, if it suffered, in the show cause notice itself with particulars of that loss in order to enable the respondent to meet the same. That has not been done even in the final order. Though the figure of 4 crores is given, in the final order, even that is not substantiated by giving particulars thereof. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the show-cause notice or the final orders passed, forfeiting the gratuity, do not meet the legal requirements and have to be set aside.”

25. In the facts of the present case, the said judgement squarely applies looking to the situation wherein the quantification of loss has not been proved in the enquiry. Even otherwise, prior to passing of an order of forfeiture of gratuity, opportunity of hearing has not been afforded to the appellant. We acknowledge the view taken by the Full Bench in the said judgment and reaffirm the same.

26. The counsel for appellant also relied upon the judgement of B.R. Sharma (supra), in which the riotous behaviour of the employee was found proved. However, the said judgment does not apply in the facts of the present case. Similarly, reliance was also placed on the case of Canara Bank (supra) wherein as per the Regulations of the Canara Bank, the withholding of the amount of gratuity to the extent of loss caused was permissible. In the facts of the present case and contents of Regulations and Circular of the Bank, the said judgment being distinguishable, has no application. The learned Single Judge has correctly observed that as per the 1977 Regulations, compulsory retirement; removal from service which shall not be a disqualification for future employment and dismissal which shall ordinarily be a disqualification for future employment are distinct and separate punishments. The act of forfeiture of gratuity is not envisaged in the present case as the provisions are silent on the aspect of forfeiture in case of compulsory retirement. As per Circular No. 1563 dated 16.01.1997 of the Bank, in our view, the Division Bench erred in reversing the judgment of the learned Single Judge.

27. Therefore, taking a wholistic view of the 1977 Regulations, 1979 Regulations, Circular dated 16.01.1997 and the facts on record, we are of the view that the present civil appeal deserves to be allowed. We affirm the findings of the learned Single Judge and set-aside the judgement rendered by the Division Bench. The appeal is allowed. No order as to costs.

Appeal Allowed.
